SYNOPSIS

Autumn 2015. At the Paris Opera, Stéphane Lissner is putting the finishing touches to his first press conference as director. Backstage, artists and crew prepare to raise the curtain on a new season with Schönberg's Moses and Aaron. But the announcement of a strike and arrival of a bull in a supporting role complicate matters. At the same time, a promising young Russian singer begins at the Opera's Academy. In the hallways of Opera Bastille, his destiny will cross paths with that of Bryn Terfel, one of the greatest voices of his time. As the season progresses, more and more characters appear, playing out the human comedy in the manner of a documentary Opera. But this comedy is set against a tragic backdrop when terrorist attacks plunge Paris into mourning. Even though the show must go on at all costs, there is no end of trouble for the new director. Star choreographer Benjamin Millepied jumps ship soon after taking over as director of ballet at Palais Garnier. Preparations for Richard Wagner's six-hour opera Die Meistersinger reunite the company.

SHORT SYNOPSIS

At times ironic, light-hearted and cruel, encompassing music and ballet, THE PARIS OPERA turns the spotlight on great passions and tells the story of life behind the scenes of one of the most prestigious performing arts venues in the world.

LOGLINE

THE PARIS OPERA is an engaging, behind-the-scenes look at the whirlwind logistics that is needed to put together the breathtaking performances and events at one of the world's most eminent institution.

SELECT PRESS FOR THE PARIS OPERA

“Bron relies exclusively on editing to shape his mosaic-like story.... there’s a lot to appreciate here — and not only for opera and classical music buffs but also for the more generally culturally curious.” – Boyd van Hoeij, The Hollywood Reporter

“This documentary by Jean-Stéphane Bron, a Swiss director, has the pace, the editing, the appearance, and the mood of a big-production drama....There are certain sequences in this doc that will lift your spirits up to the highest states of feeling that this art can reach.” – Charles Mudede, The Stranger

“Probing the backdrop of the Opera de Paris, giving a glimpse of and hearing the tremendous work of all those who work in this prestigious house, is the driving force behind this elegant and harmonious documentary: perfectly in harmony with its subject....It is the whole film that is assembled, mounted and orchestrated like an opera.” – Jacques Morice, Telerama

“An exciting work, not to be missed under any circumstances....With a rare mastery, the filmmaker prowls around the scenes of the Opera...” – Olivier de Bruyn, Les Echos

“An enthusiastic documentary, which speaks less of the spectacle than of society....Whatever the theme of his documentaries, Jean-Stéphane Bron stunned us by the intelligence of his narrative devices and the power of his gaze....Bron organizes his film in paintings, portraits and genre scenes....the Paris Opera is a metaphor for an ideal republic, where everyone, striving for excellence, contributes to the success of a collective project.” – Antoine Duplan, Le Temps

“This film is a gift for all music, opera, and dance lovers... and an invitation to everyone else!” – Qporit

“The new documentary by Jean-Stéphane Bron, THE PARIS OPERA, is prodigious. From the very first seconds, you can feel the filmmaker's eyes. The editing work is striking....an immersion film, it plunges us into the mazes of an institution that one will never leave.... [It] is an enchanting, captivating journey.” – Stephane Gobbo, Le Temps
